

Jessica Gardenhire, AIA

Jessica Gardenhire is a licensed architect residing in Atlanta, GA. A midwestern native, she began her architecture career out West after her studies at Cornell University to explore a new realm of possibilities. Her early career experiences allowed her to learn about tech campuses, master planning, laboratories, and high-rise residential design.

In her free time, she loves to stay grounded via yoga, running and painting. She strives to stay involved in her community via the National Organization of Minority Architects (NOMA) and the AIA Atlanta chapter. She currently serves as communications director on the board for AIA Atlanta. Ultimately, she is seeking a fulfilling career marrying design with function, while also making an impact locally.